Mother Teresa

Sixth Sunday in Ordinary Time

The prophet Jeremiah minces no words in today's first reading: "Thus says the LORD: Cursed is the one who trusts in human beings ... whose heart turns away from the LORD." And the prophet's "beatitude" resembles that of Jesus' teaching in today's Gospel reading when he proclaims: "Blessed is the one who trusts in the LORD, whose hope is the LORD." Good stewards understand that what the world values is not consistent with Gospel values. They realize that God has placed in their midst all the gifts, charisms, and resources needed to bring Christ to a world desperately in need of his loving presence. But to exercise good stewardship over God's gifts takes a great deal of trust. How does our stewardship reflect our trust in the Lord? What did we do today to give others hope in Christ Jesus?

The New American Bible translation of Matthew 7:2 is disturbingly clear: "Your verdict on others will be the verdict passed on you. The measure with which you measure will be used to measure you." This passage bothers all of us. And it should bother us.

From sunup to sundown, from our first moment of consciousness to when we fall asleep each night, we judge. It's entirely too easy to condemn the people closest to us or even the nameless millions on the other side of the world. Every person is vulnerable to our judgments.

Our expectations dictate that everybody should play 'good' like us, all the time, every day, always. Perhaps we can blame our insecurities, our paranoia, our need for survival, our jealousy and envy, our resentment of past hurts, our need for control. Surely we can find something to blame it on. Any path we take to trace it to its beginnings it is still the same, we judge. We judge because we cannot forgive. We cannot forgive because we do not trust. We do not trust because we do not love like Him.
